Konstantinos Poulidis, Esq.

Long Island, NY Office:
60 Broadhollow Rd.
Melville, NY 11747

Konstantinos Poulidis is an attorney whose experience combines legal advocacy, public policy, regulatory compliance, and strategic communications. He has advised businesses, organizations, and public officials on a broad range of legal and regulatory matters, including commercial disputes, legislative affairs, zoning and land-use issues, campaign finance compliance, and government relations. He is known for his ability to analyze complex legal issues, develop practical solutions, and effectively navigate regulatory and governmental processes.

Konstantinos has substantial experience conducting legal research, drafting pleadings, motions, memoranda, and policy proposals, and supporting matters through discovery, motion practice, hearings, and case preparation. His background includes advising clients on compliance matters, managing stakeholder communications, and representing organizations before governmental bodies, community groups, and public officials.

In addition to his legal practice, Konstantinos has developed extensive experience in strategic planning, public engagement, and multi-channel communications. He has worked closely with businesses, organizations, and community leaders to address regulatory challenges, advance policy initiatives, and achieve organizational objectives through effective advocacy and outreach.

Konstantinos earned his Juris Doctor from Brooklyn Law School, where he served as President of the Federalist Society and was active in the Brooklyn Business Law Association. He received his Bachelor of Arts, cum laude, in Political Science and Philosophy from CUNY Queens College. He is conversational in Greek and enjoys oil painting, photography, and philosophy.
