Marc Sloane joined our firm in 2003. Over more than three decades of legal practice, he has developed a quick response strategy to perform initial interviews and witness development shortly after he is notified of a case. This allows him to preserve key items of evidence and locate and coordinate witnesses in a manner that facilitates successful resolution of claims.

Mr. Sloane is married and the father of three children and resides in his hometown of Plainview, New York. He enjoys music, quality time with his children and volunteering his services to a local baseball organization.
